PREFACE

Hartshorn genealogies have been published by Mrs. Seth Ames (Ella May) Lewis, by Stewart Hartshorn and others, but none of these list the descendants of David the 3rd, the youngest grandson of Lt. John, the second son of Immigrant Thomas of Reading, Mass. It is our purpose to supply the missing lines.

Miss Bertha Clarke, a genealogist in Boston, has supplied us with authentic information gleaned from early town records by two authorities whose typed manuscripts are safely locked in the safe of the New England Historic Genealogical Society at 9 Ashburton Place, Boston. These manuscripts were compiled by J. Gardner Bartlett, 1924 and Celeste P. Hazen in 1947.

We are indebted to Rev. Harold V. Hartshorn of California for his shrewdness in tracing the ancestry of David the 3rd, of Norwich, who married Sarah Burchard. We are also indebted to Miss Maretta Hartshorn for work in collecting genealogical information about Hartshorns which she found in the Library of Congress, in Census records, and in deeds and wills recorded by towns.

Grateful acknowledgement, for information on late generations, is made to those in the various families who assisted in compiling it. Also to Viola W. Hartshorn for her valuable help in arranging the index.

HARTSHORNS IN ENGLAND

The Hartshorn(e)s in America are Saxon in origin but were given titles by the Normans. Records prove that they belonged to the landed gentry in central England in Leicestershire, Derbyshire, Nottingham and London. In early records are the names of Henry de Hertishorn of Derbyshire in 1216 and 1272; also Richard de Hertishorn of Derbyshire at a later date and Alice Hertishorn of London in 1471. (The name is spelled in many ways with or without the final e.) There is a parish by this name in Litchfield, Derbyshire, probably so named because its shape resembled that of the horn of a hart, a male deer, which was also an emblem or sign placed over the door of a shop or inn in London.

COAT OF ARMS

The Hartshorn(e)'s had a coat of arms, which was a sign and proof of a man's honor. A coat of arms was first used by King Richard who ruled 1189 to 1199. He brought them from the Crusades in the Holy Land. The blazon of the coat of arms most often used by Hartshorns follows:

SHIELD: Argent (silver) a chevron gules (red) between three bucks' heads cabossed (cut off so as to show no part of the neck) sable (black); CREST: A buck's head erased (torn off raggedly) sable (black); MOTTO: Fortiter et Recte (Latin: with fortitude and rectitude or boldly and rightly).

This means a silver shield with a red chevron between three bucks' heads.

In heraldry silver denotes purity, eloquence, virginity and innocence; black signifies sorrow, sin, mourning and dignity while red is the color of war, danger, courage and love of combat and adventure.

The chevron is called an honorable ordinary, which simply means one of the honorable charges most ordinarily used. It is a mark of noble blood and knighthood. It takes its shape from the shape of an ancient saddle and is the mark of a leader of mounted knights.

The heads of the stags or harts with the horns showing makes what is called a canting arms "armes parlante" or "speaking arms" and is an heraldic pun or play upon the name. There are three for the Holy Trinity. The stag's head in the crest is used for emphasis.

The stag, the largest and strongest animal indigenous to the British Isles represented strength, coupled with agility, celerity and grace.

In as much as the employment of family surnames and family coats of arms came into use at about the same time we frequently find families taking their surnames from charges upon their arms or placing bearings upon their arms which refer directly or indirectly to their surnames.

The helmet is in profile and is of steel color as it should be. Only those who actually bear titles are entitled to display a helmet of other metal or in other position.

The mantling or decorative matter around the shield has no especial shape. This is left to the taste and discretion of the artist. The only heraldic rule as to the mantle in British arms, was that it must be in the livery colors of the shield; i.e. the two first metals and/or colors mentioned in the blazon.

The mantle takes its shape from a cloak or mantle which the mounted knight wore suspended from his helmet. This was to protect him, encased as he was in metal, from the summer's hot sun rays or the winter's snows which would have fairly cooked or frozen him as the case might be. This mantle would become cut and slashed in combat and the knight was very proud of these rents. He usually had them patched in contrasting colors to make them more noticeable.

HARTSHORNS IN AMERICA

Thomas Hartshorn was a devout Puritan from Reading in the county of Berkshire, a few miles south of the early ancestral home of Derbyshire. He was the earliest settler by this name in America. Richard Hartshorn, a quaker from Leicestershire settled in Monmouth County, New Jersey in 1669. Some of his descendants moved to Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Down through eleven generations, descendants of immigrant Thomas have been officers in military service of the United States government. A large percentage are well educated and hold high office in industry and the professions. Some are farmers and businessmen. Many have had mechanical ability. In early colonial days Hartshorns built the bridges in Massachusetts and Connecticut. They invented the auger, the buzz saw and the shade roller. The families were large so younger sons were free to leave the farm and become physicians, ministers and attorneys. In the list of Harvard graduates we find the name of Ebenezer Hartshorn with A.B. in 1732 and A.M. in 1737. One of the early graduates was Rev. Chancellor Hartshorn, 1825; three decades later attorney William Hartshorn (1856) became a leading lawyer in Delhi, Iowa. Rev. Elijah Hartshorn, Yale 1815, was pastor in Preston City, Connecticut. Rev. Thomas C. Hartshorn, Colgate 1850, was assistant agent for the American Bible Society in Cleveland, Ohio and for some years superintendent of the Chicago Bible Society.

ERRORS DETECTED

Historians have made two mistakes when writing up the history of the Hartshorns. These have been misleading. We will list the mistakes and correct them stating proofs from vital statistics and from wills.

George Wingate Chase in his "History of Haverhill" (pub. 1861) gives an interesting account of the attack on Haverhill, Mass. on Aug. 29, 1708 by French and Indians from Canada at the time of Queen Anne's War. On page 94 he states that "John and Thomas Hartshorn built cottages in Haverhill in 1675". This proves that John and Thomas both located here. He says these "cottages were two stories high with the upper story jutting out a foot or so over the lower"..... On page 221 he writes "Thomas (this would be John, Jr.) and two sons came out to call assistance and were shot. A third son was tomahawked as he came out of the door. Mrs. Hartshorn took two sons through a trap door to the cellar but left a baby in the garret because she feared it would cry and attract the enemy. The Indians went to the garret, took the infant from the bed and threw it out of the window. It fell on a pile of clapboards and was found completely stunned. It lived and became a man of unusual stature and remarkable strength."

By consulting the vital statistics of Reading and Haverhill, we find that the first five children of Thomas<sup>2</sup> and Sarah Swan were born in Haverhill. Ebenezer the sixth and last child was born in Reading Aug. 31, 1690. This shows that Thomas<sup>2</sup> moved from Haverhill back to Reading. In Haverhill Vital Records p. 373 and p. 155 we find the name and date of birth of the six sons of John, Jr. and Hannah Frame. The baby thrown from the window was David, born Apr. 29, 1708, so was four months old. It was his father John, Jr. who came from the door and was shot--not Thomas.

The second mistake made by historians is found in the "History of Norwich, Conn." by Frances M. Caulkins. On p. 232 she states as follows: "David and Jonathan Hartshorn, brothers from Reading, settled in West Farms and are on the roll of inhabitants of 1702. This Jonathan was not a brother of Dr. David but was his nephew Jonathan b. May 14, 1677, son of Lt. John of Haverhill. This can be proved by consulting the will of John Burchard (#4943) which mentions his daughter Mary who had married Jonathan Hartshorn, son of John and Ruth Swan of Haverhill. Records of Norwich show that Jonathan Hartshorn married Mary Burchard in Norwich Aug. 15, 1700. There is no record of Jonathan, brother of Dr. David, except the date of his birth in Reading, being the 5th son of Thomas<sup>1</sup> and Susanna Buck.

EARLY HISTORY OF READING, MASS.

D. Hamilton Hurd in his "History of Middlesex Co., Mass." Vol. 2, gives a detailed account of the early history of Reading where Thomas Hartshorn settled in 1639 after living in Lynn since 1635. On p. 717, we learn that the inhabitants of Lynn petitioned the colony court (Boston) for inland habitation, so in 1639 the court gave the town of Lynn "four miles square at the head of their bounds". It was called "Lynn Village". In 1644 it was incorporated as the town of Redding (Reading) probably from the home of Thomas Hartshorn in England. In the list of early settlers are the names of 29 men; among these are Thomas Hartshorn, also William Hooper who built a house now called the Hartshorn House in Wakefield. This was bought by the village in 1929 and is open to visitors. A descendant of Thomas named Col. James Hartshorne lived in this house 1803-1870. Col. James was a shoe manufacturer and a descendant of Benjamin, the 4th son of Immigrant Thomas.

The new village contained 4568 acres. On the fertile hillsides, they raised small crops of wheat, peas, barley, rye and Indian corn. On the Saugus River John Poole built a sawmill in 1644. Their church was the twelfth in the Mass. Bay Colony. There were two lakes well stocked with fish. The Saugus River flowed from a lake to the parent settlement at Lynn and the Ipswich River on the other side flowed to the ocean. Thomas Hartshorn lived south of the lake or pond and had seven sturdy sons and one daughter.

HARTSHORN GENEALOGY

THOMAS HARTSHORN, b. 1614 in Reading, Berkshire, Eng. d. May 18, 1683. in S. Reading, Mass, now Wakefield. J. Gardner Bartlett in his typed manuscript gives the following record of Middlesex Co. Court: "On 3 April 1654 Thomas Hartshorn aged about forty deposed in the Court of Middlesex Co., Mass. that Henry Felch absented himself from church during baptism." So Thomas was b. about 1614.

m. (1) 1647, Reading, Mass., Susanna Buck. d. Mar. 18, 1660.
(2) Apr. 10, 1661, in Ipswich, Mrs. Sarah (Ayers) Lamson. She later married, Mar. 30, 1685, John Mason from Dedham.

Thomas settled in the port of Lynn in 1635 and in Reading, Mass. in 1639. He was a tailor by trade but like all of the pioneer settlers was chiefly a farmer. He lived in that part of Reading that is now Wakefield. His house was on the west side of present Elm St. a little north of present Eustice Ave. It was nearly 250 years old when it was taken down. A pair of ancient buttonwood trees still mark the site. On May 10, 1648 he was made a freeman with right to vote and to have land grants. In Sept. of this year his name is on the list of members of the Reading Church. In 1650 he was granted 10 acres of arable land, in 1655 a meadow lot, in 1665 land north of the Ipswich River and in 1666 some swamp lands. Thomas held several town offices; he was constable in 1658 and 1672, selectman in 1661 and 1667. Selectmen were elected each year by the voters. The number varied from 5 to 12. They chose the officers: constable and tax-collectors, school teachers and fence-viewers, and levied taxes for salaries and schools. In 1676 five sons of Thomas fought in King Phillip's war. In 1679 Thomas was sergeant in the Reading Military Co.

He made his will Oct. 26, 1681. It was proved June 19, 1683. Mr. Bartlett adds the comment that "The will, still to be seen, is in the handwriting of Major Jeremiah Swaine, 'the most prominent citizen in Reading of his generation'".

John is said to have been a tailor. He was living in Haverhill before 1675 and lived there for about 35 years. His War Record: Lt. John served under Captain Sill in King Philip's War in 1675-76 and was in Massachusetts' Militia in Queen Anne's War. In 1693 he was under command of Capt. John Hill at Wells, Maine.<sup>8</sup> He is called son-in-law of John Brown, and later is spoken of as Lieut. Harts-horne. On Dec. 5, 1737 when 87 he was one of the few soldiers of King Philip's War still alive when granted land in the Narragansett country. At this time he and son Jonathan and grandson David were well located in West Farms but David's son John may have been granted the land in Mansfield where he located about 1757. This was 25 miles north of Franklin. In Norwich West Farms, Lt. John and David lived with Martha and Samuel Ladd. David bought land in the town of Norwich in 1729 and in 1733. Jonathan had bought land before 1700 so the new land was available for their children. We know John was engaged in trade as recorded in Josiah Hempstead's diary, which states that Lt. John sold him 10 pairs of gravestones on Oct. 21, 1724. In 1726 John bought from Hempstead 50 pounds of wool.

David was four months old at the time of the Haverhill Massacre Aug. 29, 1708 when thrown from a second story window by Indians. He was found by his grandfather, Lt. John, on a pile of clapboards, completely stunned but he survived and was brought up by his grandfather. They moved to Rowley, an adjoining town, in Essex Co., after Lt. John married his 4th wife Mary, Sept. 22, 1709. After Mary died Sept. 16, 1719 they moved to Norwich and lived with Samuel and Martha Ladd. David bought land in West Farms in 1729. To distinguish himself from Dr. David and David, Jr., he called himself David the 3rd. This can be proved by consulting his deeds and his will. He was held in high esteem as executor of wills. His will was probated Apr. 8, 1778.

DESCENDANTS OF IRA HARTSHORN

GENERATION VII.

8. IRA HARTSHORN (p.11) (Oliver<sup>6</sup>) b. June 3, 1793 in Lisbon, Conn.
d. Sept. 27, 1859 in La Salle Co., Ill. Bur. in family Cemetery on Burnham farm, later transferred to Oakwood Cemetery, La Salle, Ill.

m. Feb. 4, 1818 in Lisbon, Conn. Joanna Burnham, dau. of Benjamin and Talitha (Perkins) Burnham. b. July 30, 1796 in Lisbon, Conn.
d. Feb. 14, 1875 near Forrest, Ill. where she had been making her home with her dau. Lydia. She was the first person to bur. in Oakwood Cemetery, La Salle, Ill.

Ira was a man of intelligence, unusual business ability, courage and perseverance. He and his older brothers Ryal and Oliver managed a store in Lisbon, Conn. following their father's death in 1810.
A bill dated Nov. 29, 1815 shows "327½ lb. beef @ $5.50, Bot of R., O. and I. Hartshorn". The following notice was posted in the store.

NOTICE

The subscriber having made some new arrangements in his business, takes this method to invite all who have open accounts with him, to call immediately and close the same.
Those who do not attend to this invitation by the 15th of August, will then have to settle with an attorney.

Lisbon, July 29th, 1816.

Ira Hartshorn

In 1816 he moved with his mother, two brothers and three sisters to Smith's Valley, Madison Co., N.Y. The three brothers had a store for a few years. Ira soon had an Inn and was manager of a stage route. After his marriage they lived in Cazanovia, N.Y. for about a year and then moved to Lebanon. The "Observer and Recorder" a Morrisville, N.Y. newspaper published a notice of a political meeting: "The Jackson young men are to meet at the Inn of Ira Hartshorn at 4 P.M. Sept. 13, 1828, to choose delegates to the county Convention on the 24th of the month." This was the year Andrew Jackson was elected President.

In 1836 Ira made a prospecting tour to Ill. He told, in letters, of working his way from Detroit to Chicago. In Chicago, a "city with a wonderful future", he worked for a carpenter. There was a great shortage of houses and other buildings. He also worked in a saw-mill in Joliet, Ill. for a time, before going to La Salle Co. where the Burnhams lived. He liked the land, arranged to buy some from his sister-in-law, Hannah Burnham, before the Canal Land Sales had been held so she had no deed to it as yet, and returned to New York to get his family. They made the trip from New York State to Chicago via the Great Lakes, bringing all of their household goods and farm equipment. Upon arrival in Chicago Joshua was sent by stage to tell the Burnhams of their arrival. The Burnham covered wagons were taken to Chicago to get the family.

In July 1837 the family arrived at the Burnham home. In a short while the older Hartshorn boys had built a log cabin where they lived until the following spring when they built a six room home with a "cellar under the whole house". It was the first house in the vicinity built of sawed boards and people came from some distance to see it. A light was always kept burning in an upstairs window to guide strangers on their way. Many times the children would have to give up their beds to strangers but they were glad to do this for new comers. They always brought news from the east. The doors were never locked.

Ira was a Democrat in New England but after going to Ill. he became a Free-Soiler. He was a member of the first Town Board of Utica Township (1851). He was a Justice of the Peace and later Highway Commissioner. As such he often signed his name as Ira Hartson (to be seen on deeds).

When the family first arrived in Ill. their post office was at Rockwell where there was a colony of people from Norwich, Conn. In 1838 this community was ravaged with an epidemic and the post office was moved to Peru, which was the growing community. Later it was at La Salle which was nearer and became their permanent post office. All three of these places are adjoining. It cost 25¢ for a letter, paid when it was received.

In 1859, hoping to improve his health, Ira accompanied his son Calvert on a trip to Pike's Peak but his condition became worse and he returned home before completing the trip.

Following are excerpts from letters written by Ira Hartshorn:

"La Salle, La Salle Co., Ill. Mar. 20, 1839: Miss Moranda & Eliza Hartshorn. Dear Sisters:.....Our minds are altogether placed on farming. Alfred, Pliny and Calvert have been attending school the winter past, we have had a very good school  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles from our house. Darwin has worked out during the past winter driving a team for twenty two dollars a month. Has hired out to the same man to work on a farm for one year commencing the first day of March for Twenty Dollars a Month.....I have made two trips to Chicago during this winter. I bo't me a good new two horse Wagon for which I paid Eighty One Dollars, some farming tools and some necessities for family use.....Since I have been here I have laboured under great inconvenience for the want of a two horse wagon. They are scarce to be Bo't and command a great price..

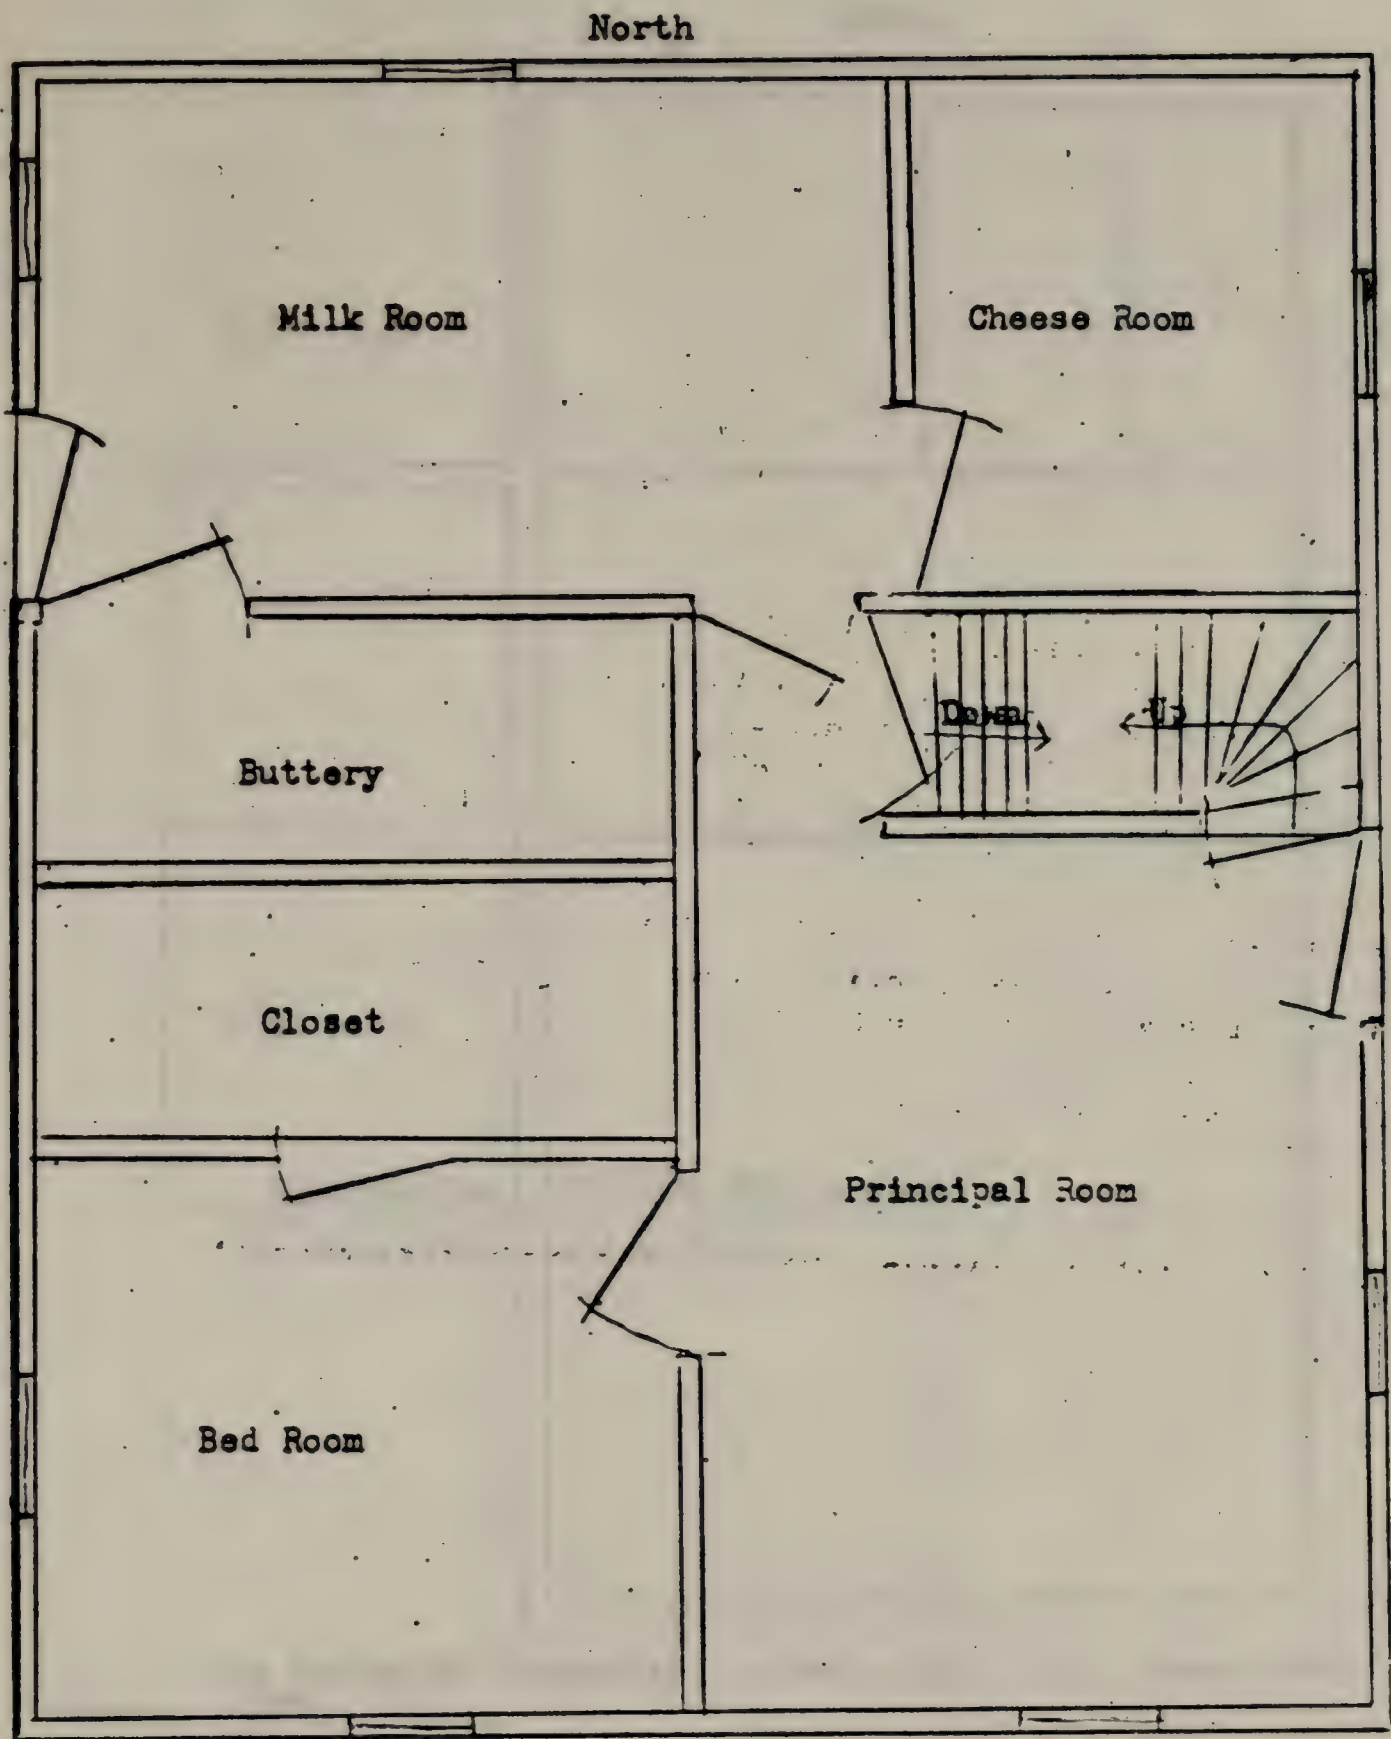

"We are calculating to do considerable farming the approaching season, thinking of putting in a spring crop of about Fifty acres or more which will keep us busily employed, we have still a team of four horses able to do heavy work.....I am calculating to plant about 8 acres of potatoes as they are about as good a crop as can be raised in this country, they are now worth One Dollar a bushel, corn $0.37½ Wheat $1.00 Oats $0.50. Ira Hartshorn."

"Peru, La Salle Co., Ill. August 15th 1842. Miss Eliza Hartshorn: Dear Sister: As much has been said to you by Joshua and others concerning the purchase of lands in this country at the Land Sales I thought I would inform you the result.--it commenced on the sixth day of June and continued for two weeks. During that time there was a great quantity of La Salle Co., Illinois farmhouse of Ira Hartshorn, from plan drawn by him and mailed to his sister Eliza, Smith's Valley, N.Y.

This was the first farmhouse in the vicinity. "26' x 27 $\frac{1}{2}$ '" with "cellar under the whole house". "Moved in April 28, 1838". Two bedrooms upstairs.

The Hartshorn Community, La Salle Co., Ill., about 1865.

Land Sold. Joshua purchased One hundred and Sixty Acres, all prairie--the Land is excellent of the first quality--he had to pay Seven Dollars per Acre which amounted to Eleven hundred and twenty Dollars--the same when improved will make as good and as handsomely situated a farm as any in the United States.--he has selected a building spot, and from that he can see every foot of his farm and for miles around him--We are doing considerable at farming this season, we have a good crop of Wheat and Oats, which we have harvested, we have about fifty acres of Corn which looks well, think we will get a good crop, and Six Acres of Potatoes.....we milk Nine Cows and make butter and cheese .....Wheat sells for Cash at fifty cents a bushel which is the only article here a farmer can sell for Cash.....the Boys intend sowing fifty or sixty acres of Wheat in the fall.....yours in haste Ira Hartshorn".

"Ira Hartshorn was a private in the Conn. Militia, War of 1812. His place of service was New London; his commander was Charles Perkins; and the period of his service was from June 1, 1813 to June 16, 1813". The War ended at this time.

Joanna was a woman of sound judgement, rare virtues and esteemed by all who knew her. She was a charter member of the Peru, Ill. Congregational Church, Nov. 27, 1837. Later, in 1852, she became a charter member of the La Salle Congregational Church which was about two miles nearer her home. She lived on the homestead until 1866, afterward with her children.

All of the children, after their marriage, lived for a time within a few miles of the homestead. All eight children were present to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the arrival of the family in Ill. The following is from a paper written by Aunt Hannah Burnham and read on this occasion.

"Notwithstanding the predictions of eastern friends that parents and children would all succumb to the hardships of pioneer life, the eight children lived to see the locomotive succeed the ox team, the steam thresher the flail, and the flour mill the iron mortar in which, amid jests and laughter, they, when children, pounded the corn into meal. They have seen the broad prairie, then uninhabited save by hungry wolves and timid deer, or perhaps an occasional camp of Indians, now intersected by railroads and telegraph wires and thickly dotted with thrifty and luxurious homes".

a descendant of John and Priscilla (Mullins) Alden.

Joshua went from N.Y. to Ill. with his parents, brothers and sisters. He was the carpenter of the family and helped build their first homes. Later he built his own home as well as those of his brothers Calvert and Alfred. Between the years of 1850 and 1860 he held offices of Collector, Supervisor and Highway Commissioner in Waltham Twp. It was probably about 1860 that he moved into a new home in Dimmick Twp. He moved to Wiota, Ia. sometime before 1887.

Alfred (A.I.) migrated from Lebanon, N.Y. to La Salle Co., Ill., with his family, when he was fourteen years of age. He attended school in Princeton, Ill. for a time and after returning home made a claim on Ill.-Mich. Canal Land (sold to help raise money to build the canal) and subsequently bought it at the sale of canal lands. This was in Waltham Twp., adjoining his father's homestead in Utica Twp. In 1854 he rented his farm and engaged in the coal business in La Salle, shipping the first carload of coal on the Illinois Central Railroad, after the completion of its line through La Salle. The coal was mined on his property in La Salle Twp. In 1860 he returned to farming and stockraising, moving into a new home on his farm, built by his brother Joshua. In 1883 he built a new home on his farm in La Salle Twp., where he lived for some years. He then returned to La Salle where he spent the rest of his life, living to the age of 92.

Alfred's 2nd wife, Amelia, died when their oldest child was twelve. His Aunt Hannah Burnham kept house for him the rest of her life, raising the family, as well as teaching them in a room set aside as their school room.

sister of Jane (Simonton) Hartshorn and a descendant of John and Priscilla (Mullins) Alden who came to America on the "Mayflower".

Pliny came to La Salle Co., Ill. with his parents in 1837. He remained at home until he was nineteen years old, when, in 1844 he and his sister Mary went to Hamilton, N.Y. to attend school. They remained there two years. Before leaving home he and his brothers, Joshua and A.I., located seven eighty-acre tracts of land which they bought as soon as it came into market, and after his return from school he devoted his attention to farming. He later bought Joshua's farm and a part of the Thomas Burnham farm, a corner of which included the family cemetery. These farms are still owned by Hartshorns (1961).

He migrated to Ill., with his parents, at the age of ten. He was Waltham Highway Commissioner in 1855. After his marriage he lived in Utica Twp. less than a mile from the home of his parents, in a house built by his brother Joshua. He moved to Buckley, Ill. about 1870, to Onarga, Ill. about 1881 and to Peabody, Kans. in 1907. He was a farmer all of his life. After he retired and lived in Peabody everyone called him "Uncle Cal." He always enjoyed visiting and reminiscing about early experiences on cross country errands, leading wagon trains, Indians, hunting buffalo on the Kansas plains and so on. He lived until almost 93 years of age and until a few weeks before his death would sit up late evenings reading.

THE BURNHAM FAMILY

ORIGIN OF NAME IN ENGLAND

Walter Le Vautre came to England at the Conquest (1066) with William of Normandy, in the train of his cousin-german Earl Warren, (William de Warrenne, Earl of Surrey, who married Gundred, dau. of William the Conqueror) and at the survey (1080), was made lord of the Saxon villages of Burnham (and of many other manors); from these manors he took his surname of De Burnham.

"Burn" means "Chief, Hero, Man". "a Knight, a Noble"; also "a brook or a small river".

"Ham" signifies "a town, a village, a rich level meadow"; the name, when applied to a person, signified the lord of a town or village; when applied to a place, it signified a town or village by a river; but it was probably never used as a surname until after the Conquest when Walter added de Burnham to his name. (The "de" remained until about the 15th Century, at which time the principal manors had passed from the family.

King Alfred the Great, in his will, made before 900, mentions Burnhamme Co. of Somerset, and Burnham Co. of Sussex.

To the Normans belongs the credit of having first regularly instituted and employed surnames -- in the present acceptation of the word.

Walter who held the lands for Earl Warren, and who took the name de Burnham, left the estates to his son William, then they went to William's son Matthew. Philip was lord in the reign of King Stephen; his sons were William and Reginald. William's son Philip was lord at the time of Henry II, then William who died in 1270.

The Abbey church, at Norwich, was burned by the citizens, in a quarrel with the Monks about 1250. It is thought, saith Hollinshead, that the Prior of the House, whose name was William de Burnham was the occasion of all of this mischief. He got together armed men to protect the Belfry and Church by force of arms.

COATS OF ARMS

A VERY OLD oil painting of the Burnham coat of arms has been handed down through a female branch (the male branch extinct) through the line of Thomas Burnham, Senior (not our line) through his son William, who were settled at Wethersfield, Conn. They (the arms without the crest) are the same as (a chevron between three lion's heads) and similar to that in stone over the entrance to Hatfield Court (old). (The arms in stone are surmounted by a helmet, side view, visor closed, indicating an Esquire).

#1. Burnham (Suffolk) Sable (black). A cross between four cresscents, argent (silver or white).

#2. Burnham. Gules (red). A chevron or. (gold) between three lions heads erased argent (silver or white).
Crest a leopard's head erased, purpure (purple).

The Burnham Seal (1100) was round, of an inch and a half over, with a man completely armed on horseback, a drawn sword in his hand.

The Coat of Arms illustrated here is slightly differenced, from #2 above, probably by an oldest son. It is a copy of a drawing handed down in the family and in the possession of Lucile (Downing) Spacht.

The cross in its various forms is such an obvious charge that it must be amongst the earliest of coats. It is common in England partly on account of its association with St. George and with the Crusades. Pope Urban II, the preacher of the First Crusade, decreed this practice at the Council of Clermont in 1095. "The Cross of Christ," he told the crusaders, "is the symbol of your salvation. Wear it, a red, a bloody cross, on your breasts and shoulders, as a token that His help will never fail you; as the pledge of a vow which can never be recalled." The Templars bore the cross red on white (or silver, if metal), the Hospitallers white (or silver) on black. The crescent is another charge which may have Crusade connections. It was the ancient emblem of Byzantium and may have been used by the Christians after its capture.

The use of seals in England became general within a few years of the Norman Conquest, and early in the 12th century they were universally adopted for the purpose of authenticating documents. As the 12th century advanced, it became a growing custom for a man of the knightly class to display on his seal a little equestrian figure of himself in full armour, and naturally the cognizance he actually used was reproduced on the shield. It was a matter of practical convenience for a son, on inheriting his father's lands and responsibilities, to continue to use the seal device which men had learned to associate with the particular lordship or fief which he held.

BURNHAMS IN AMERICA

It would appear that three brothers, John, Thomas and Robert, sons of Robert and Mary (Andrews) Burnham, of Norwich, Norfolk Co., England, came to America early in 1635; that they came on the Ship Angel Gabriel in charge of their maternal Uncle, Capt. Andrews, master of said ship; that they were wrecked on the coast of Maine; that, with the freight thrown overboard to relieve the vessel at the time of the disaster, was a chest, containing valuables, belonging to the three boys; that the boys came to Chebacco with the Uncle and remained with him.

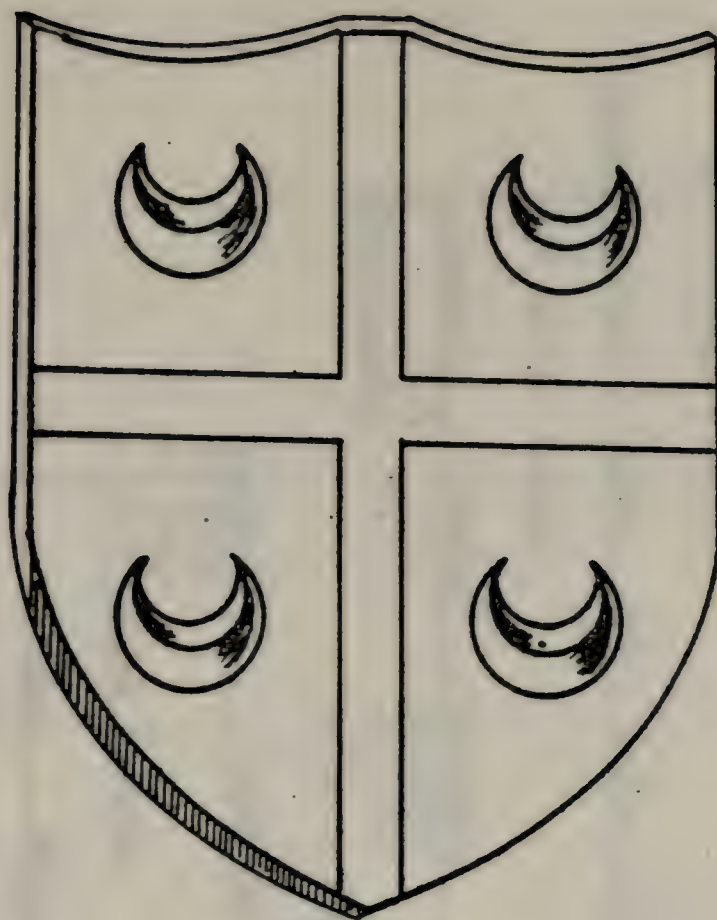

According to tradition the first Chebacco boat was built by a Burnham in the garret of an ancient house....and the garret window had to be cut away to launch her. The summer after she was built a man and a boy -- Burnhams -- went in her to Damaris Cove, about 120 miles.

LaSalle, Ill. April 22nd, 1889.

He migrated to Ill. in 1835 to be with his son Thomas and dau. Hannah. His death occurred a few days before that of his son Thomas, both following typhoid fever. A monument was placed in Oakwood Cemetery, La Salle, Ill. by his dau. Hannah, in memory of those members of the family who were buried in a cemetery on the Burnham farm and later moved to Oakwood.

Joanna, Thomas and Hannah all settled in Ill. Samuel John was there for a while but moved to Ia. in the early 1850's. Sarah also moved to Ill.

6. THOMAS BURNHAM (Benjamin<sup>5</sup> Benjamin<sup>4</sup> Benjamin<sup>3</sup> Thomas<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>)
b. Nov. 11, 1804, Lisbon, Conn. d. May 6, 1845, La Salle Co., Ill.,
m. Apr., 1833, Climena Clark. b. Sept. 18, 1813, Granby, Mass. d.
June 7, 1842, La Salle Co., Ill.

Thomas Burnham, who was the first white settler in what is now Waltham Twp., La Salle Co., Ill., was a graduate of Amherst College, and was a farmer by occupation. He, his wife and his sister Hannah, arrived in La Salle Co. in July 1833 in a covered wagon. All were ill when they arrived. They stopped on the Ill. River bottom, opposite the then thriving community of Rockwell, just east of La Salle. They stayed with the David Letts family until they had recovered. Then Mr. Letts moved them to Cedar Point, where they made a claim. In Sept. 1834, he sold to Lewis Waldo and moved north of the river.

Most pioneers of this time built their furniture for their homes, of the rough logs, cut locally, but contrary to this custom the Burnham's had a table, a few chairs and some trunks. "Besides, the ladies were accomplished and the master a college graduate." It was not long before word of this made the rounds of the countryside and soon neighboring frontiersmen made their way to this cabin. One noted these luxuries and, to the inquiry of others, eager to know who and what these new comers were, he replied: "I don't know much about 'em, but they've got right smart of larnin' and a heap of plunder." The Indians, camping near, came often, too. It was their belief that every white man kept whiskey and they came to the cabin to "swap for whisk(ey)". It was with difficulty that they were finally convinced that "this was a man of temperance as well as an advocate of every other good of mankind".

He was County Commissioner and Justice of the Peace for several years. He was the first settler, in what is now Waltham Twp.; erected the first dwelling, broke the first prairie and raised the first crop in this twp.

They were the parents of four children, two of whom died in infancy.

b. Apr. 22, 1807, Lisbon, Conn. d. Jan. 4, 1892, La Salle, Ill.

She never married but spent much of her life doing for members of the family who needed her.

In the spring of 1833 she went, with her brother Thomas and his wife, from Lisbon, Conn. to La Salle Co., Illinois. They were the first and for some time the only family living in what is now Waltham township. Many a sad, as well as mirthful story, was related by her of these early days. It was not uncommon for the women to look up from their work and see Indians looking in a window. If the Indians thought they had not been seen they would often leave without going to the door.

In 1838 she went to live with her sister Joanna and her husband, Ira Hartshorn, and family, in their new home nearby. "Many an evening that winter they spent listening to the merry jests of the younger children while the older ones took turns in wielding the pestle to an iron mortar as they crushed the corn, making meal for their next day's bread...She has given with a bountiful hand to objects of charity and donated freely to religious bodies, of which the American Bible Society shared her deepest interest, and for which she served many years as local agent in the district where she lived....In 1847 she went to live with her nephew, E. D. (Darwin) Hartshorn, and her sojourn of twenty-one years in his family was one continued effort to promote the financial as well as the spiritual and intellectual interests of its members, who, to her, were an affectionate and appreciative family....In 1868 they moved to Buckley, Ill. and in the fall of 1869 she returned to visit friends living near her former home, and finding the wife of her nephew A. I. Hartshorn, dangerously sick, by request remained with them, devoting herself to the wants and cares of his household, and with an abiding interest in their present and future well-being." She raised Alfred's family and lived with him the rest of her life, about twenty-two years.

Aunt Hannah passed into that 'house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens' (her words), leaving many fond memories among those of the then younger generation, of her great influence on their lives, to work toward the things which were most worth while as not only taught them by her but exemplified in her most unselfish life given to helping any of her family who needed her. She held the love and respect of all who knew her and her name was spoken almost in reverence.
